

VIRTUAL WORK INTERNSHIPS

making Greece work for you

Get international experience in a professional setting

right from your home!!

Recognizing the need for professional experience that transcends borders, Perrotis College has partnered with local businesses to offer a meaningful work internship right from the comfort of your own home. This remote work internship enables students to gain valuable work experience and enhance their skills in research, communication and business processes, under the guidance of a Perrotis College professor.

As part of our program, you will conduct a project for a company in the agrifood or hospitality sector and meet with both a business manager and Perrotis professor regularly. Workshops focusing on cultural and professional skills are also included.

Work with industry leaders and gain insight into Greek business and culture

Details

- Available Fall, Spring or Summer

Two of Greece's largest industries are tourism and agriculture, however, the products from these industries have traditionally been undermarketed in the US. Through your internship you can participate in projects that will not only help you gain highly sought-after skills but also provide a valuable service to a small to mid size company in Greece.

Possible projects

- Conduct research on potential new US markets for Greek products
- Consumer research into preferences for organic vs conventional products
- Develop company social media presence
- Research new distribution channels for products
- Communication strategies: suggest how to best communicate company image during the pandemic
- Current consumer food trends and their impact on the Greek agrifood sector
- Additional projects available upon request

Gain the skills needed to jumpstart your career early while earning college credit
